

Guy's and St Thomas'

NHS Foundation Trust

A histology slide showing a cross-section of vulval tissue, stained with hematoxylin and eosin (H&E), displaying various cellular structures and tissue layers.

Vulval Dermatology in Practice: Masterclass

9 February 2017
London, UK

This specialised dermatology masterclass provides a one of kind interactive learning experience led by vulval dermatology specialist Dr Fiona Lewis. The masterclass is designed to maximise the amount that delegates can learn in a half-day, so the sessions are very hands on with case studies being brought to life.

The vulval dermatology masterclass includes an opportunity to hone examination technique through assessing what questions to ask a patient and what to look for. Illustrative examples of typical referral letters are also used to take a close look at common mistakes to avoid when describing symptoms.

BOOK NOW!

www.guysandstthomasevents.co.uk/vulval-dermatology-in-practice-masterclass-february-2017