

Prick tests

Prick tests produce a weal and flare reaction due to type I hypersensitivity to allergens such as pollens, house dust mite and animal danders and are useful in management of atopic diseases