

Career prospects

The demand for dermatological expertise will never diminish, there is a bottle neck at present as the popularity of the specialty means a substantial number of ST2s usually apply for each NTN available. However efforts are being made to increase the number of NTN as there are many unfilled consultant posts in the country. With relatively few NTN compared with consultant posts, and many consultants taking early retirement this is unlikely to change in the near future.